Undergraduate Tuition, Fees & Financial Aid

When estimating the net cost of a university education, a student should consider two factors: (1) the total cost of tuition, fees, and materials related to a particular program, plus costs directly related to the choice of living style (dormitory, apartment, commuting costs) and (2) financial aid that may be available from a variety of sources. This section provides information on both of these distinct but related topics.

Tuition and Fees 2005 - 2006

Following is the schedule of fees established by the Board of Trustees of New York University for the year 2005-2006. The Board of Trustees reserves the right to alter this schedule without notice. Tuition, fees, and expenses may be expected to increase in subsequent years and will be listed in supplements to this bulletin.

Note that the registration and services fee covers membership, dues, etc., to the student’s class organization and entitles the student to membership in such University activities as are supported by this allocation and to receive regularly those University and SCPS publications that are supported in whole or in part by the student activities fund. It also includes the University’s health services and emergency and accident coverage.

Note: Deposits may be required for laboratory courses. Students should consult the respective departments for information. All fees are payable at the time of registration.

The Office of the Bursar is located at 25 West Fourth Street. Checks and drafts are to be drawn to the order of New York University for the exact amount of the tuition and fees required. In the case of overpayment, the balance is refunded on request by filing a refund application in the Office of the Bursar. A fee will be charged if payment is not made by the due date indicated on the student’s statement. The unpaid balance of a student’s account is also subject to an interest charge of 12 percent per annum from the first day of class until payment is received.

Holders of New York State Tuition Assistance Program Awards will be allowed credit toward their tuition fees in the amount of their entitlement, provided they are enrolled on a full-time basis and they present with their schedule/bill the Award Certificate for the applicable term. Students who receive awards after registration will receive a check (if an overpayment is created) from the University after the Office of the Bursar has received the New York State payment and the Office of the Registrar has confirmed eligibility. The following is an explanatory schedule of fees for 2005-2006.
